An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with Jessica M. Cahill on 07 April 2009

Examiner's Amendment

In the Claims:

Claims 18-22 have been cancelled. (The Examiner's Amendment is not a requirement inasmuch as the Application is not yet in condition for Allowance)

The Title has been amended to be –Method for Moving at Least Two Elements of a Placement Machine—

In view of the Office finding what is believed to be more pertinent prior art the following Non-Final Office Action is deemed to be necessary.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 11-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Junge (Pat. Doc. 2004/0026938 A1); hereinafter Junge.

Junge teaches a placement machine that can move at least two (2) elements or ICs from a wafer. Grippers (5) or elements can move independently along a linear path or predetermined direction.. The grippers are associated with a gripping device (3). If in fact Junge does not expressly teach moving a 1st element (gripper) relative to a 2nd element (gripper) in a direction opposite to the predetermined direction (Cf. Fig. 1) it would have been obvious to do so (in order to keep the gripper at one desired position while the other gripper was proceeding to position other than one at which it was located prior to its moving. Furthermore as applied to claims 12 and 13 it is held to have been obvious to provide that the 1st element move in a predetermined direction over a distance substantially equal to the distance equal to the distance equal to the distance over which the 2nd element is moved in the opposite direction and that the 1st element is moved in the predetermined distance with a speed that is substantially equal to the speed with which the 2nd element is moved in the opposite direction.

Claims 16 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Junge in view of Duquette et al (Pat. Doc. 2003/0110610 A1); hereinafter Duquette et al.

Junge has been explained in detail hereinabove and will not be further explained. Duquette et al teach a pick-and-place apparatus that has an image sensor (200) that is included with a placement head (206). (Cf. page 2). It would have been obvious to combine the 2 teachings and to provide that one of the elements (5) include a image sensor.

Claims 14 and 15 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
